Truck Crash Lands On Campus

degrading the injured vehicle and were unloading equipment from the rear of the camper in an attempt to locate some tools so they could begin repairs.

They didn't realize, however, nothing short of a portable, fully-equipped, garage could solve their problem.

When the truck hit the curb, both front wheels flew off, along with the brake drums, which shattered upon impact. Brake shoes were laying at odd angles along the vehicle route and broken glass and twisted metal littered the lawn.

Still, attempts were made by the two to jack-up the front of the truck and, somehow, replace the shattered drums and flat tires.

While the scenario continued to unfold, I squeezed off a few frames of the damage.

Finally, the campus police arrived and instead of approaching the two persons involved in the accident, one

Out of the night came the roar of an engine.

I looked down State College Parkway, from my vantage point on the East side of the Creative Arts Building, and saw a brown blur screaming toward the 'T' at the street's end. It was about 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 30 and a pick-up, traveling apparently over 50 mph hit the curb, somehow managed to guide itself between two trees and came to rest in the grass on the north side of the perimeter road.

By the time I reached the scene, the camper's two occupants were hurriedly consuming the contents of a bottle and cursing the truck for its inability to negotiate the 'T'. When the substance, which was dark purple in color (not unlike MD 20/20), was depleted, one of the passengers threw the container.

The bottle landed about eight feet from the point of launch and no further attempts were made by the two to increase its distance from the scene.

When I determined the visitors were not injured, I raced two miles to my house to collect my camera flash. When I returned to the scene, the two men were still officer started questioning me about who I worked for and informed me that pictures of the occupants and the vehicle could not be published.

Then the three officers went to look at the truck and proceeded to question the two men.

After determining who the driver of the vehicle was, the suspect was given a sobriety test, which, in my opinion, he handily failed.

Additional questions were posed to the driver and then he was arrested. During the arrest the suspect was searched and then the officer spent about 5 minutes trying to handcuff the man. The man apparently had difficulty getting both hands to the same spot in space at the same time. He finally succeeded and then transported the suspect to county jail.

The other man determined that repairs were fruitless and re-loaded the equipment into the camper. He was not arrested and the truck was later towed away.

Campus Police Stories

Dodge City Revisited

At about 2:30 Sunday Morning, October 5, Campus Police responded to a call from a Resident Assistant requiring help.

It was reported to the PawPrint shortly after the incident that a resident of one of the halls was threatening people with a handgun which turned out to be plastic and offering it to others with suggestions for use.

Another student was in their assigned room and opened a drawer according to reports and another resident saw a real weapon.

Apparently, the two stories became confused and the Police were called for under the assumption the real weapon was being wielded.

The Police discovered only a minor violation of law which prohibits possession of a firearm in a state residence hall. The Police took the weapon back to the station for storage, a service they maintain for all dormitory residents with 24 hour access.

No arrests were made and no complaints were filed according to the spokesperson for the Campus Police.

Bookstore Break-in

The College Bookstore was broken into during the early evening hours of Saturday, September 6.

Campus Police were alerted by an alarm and Officer Moses apprehended a suspect inside the store.

The individual was a juvenile and his name was not released. He was turned over to county juvenile authorities.

No loss or damage was reported by the bookstore.

UPC/CFA Dumke WAR

By Billy McCluskey

A proposal to change the salary schedule of the faculty of the California State University and College was submitted by the Chancellor's office to the board of trustees at their bimonthly meeting on September 23.

The first time anyone apparently heard of the plan outside of the Chancellor's staff was on September 10, when a preliminary proposal, apparently prepared by the chancellor's staff, came to the attention of the CSUC Statewide Academic Senate.

In a meeting on September 18 it was agreed that the chair of the Academic Senate make a request, "in the strongest terms", asking the CSUC Board of Trustees to return the draft document to the Chancellor instructing him to consult with the Academic Senate, the campus senates, and appropriate faculty representatives in order to find out if there is a need for a schedule revision.

The United Professors of California and the Congress of Faculty Association who were at odds in a recent debate over who is to represent the faculty in collective bargaining, have apparently come together in denouncing this recent move by the Chancellor.

The UPC has sent a letter to the CSUC Board of Trustees calling for the Chancellor's resignation. Both the CFA and UPC have filed unfair labor practice charges against the CSUC with the Public Employment Relations Board.

Traditionally a proposal would be thoroughly reviewed and discussed with various concerned organizations or representatives before submitting it to the Board of Trustees.

The Board of Trustees consist of five ex officio members including the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Speaker of the Assembly, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the Chancellor. There are also sixteen members appointed by the governor, and there is one student representative. They are responsible for the management, administration, and control of the CSUC. For example, they make requests to the legislature for money for general support, they can raise or lower student fees, or they can authorize the construction of new buildings that do not take general fund support.

According to CSCSB representatives of the Statewide

Academic Senate, there was no consultation on the preparation of this revision draft with the Academic Senate, or with local senates. They further maintain this is not a long enough period of time to analyze the document, and they would like to consult with the faculty on the need for such a proposal.

The Chancellor agreed to postpone this matter as an action item until the January 27 board meeting.

The UPC and CFA seem to agree that this was a move by the Chancellor to get the CSUC professors salary schedule changed before the collective bargaining election which is supposed to take place in April or May of 1981.

The proposal would allow pay raise increments of 2½%, 5%, or 7½% pay raises annually.

The draft states that about 1/3 of the professors in the CSUC have already reached the top pay, and there is a need for pay increases above this for incentive purposes.

There will be a meeting of the CSCSB Faculty Senate Tuesday October 7 at 3 p.m. in LC 500 where this issue will be discussed.

Trustee Chair Comments

September 26, 1980

Dr. Warren Kessler, President
United Professors of California
901 F Street, Suite 100
Sacramento, California 95814

Dear Dr. Kessler:

Your letter to me dated September 23, the day you participated with us in the meeting of the Board of Trustees in Long Beach, was received on September 25 -- two days after the first news of its existence and its contents had been made available to the press by you. I consider your handling of this matter to have been an affront to the Board, and a personal discourtesy to me as its Chairperson.

Your letter requests the replacement of the Chancellor of The California State University and Colleges. Your request, coming immediately following the Board's initial consideration of a proposal to provide for salary increases for professors on the basis of merit, raises the question of motivation.

With regard to Chancellor Dumke, you may advise your membership that the Board of Trustees, meeting in Executive Session on September 23, took cognizance of your news release. The Board expressed its fullest confidence in the Chancellor as the chief executive officer of The California State University and Colleges, and reaffirmed its support of his leadership.

I intend to make the contents of this letter available to interested media.

Sincerely,

Claudia H. Hampton
Chairperson
Board of Trustees

Anti-Nuke the Foo-Birds Movement

A new campus organization has been created to support a move on the part of anti-ecologists to wipe out the legendary, prolific, mendacious and cute Foo-Birds.

Such a move can only be seen as part of an on-going effort to remove nature's gifts from the earth.

Such an action is inconsistent with history and tradition.

What would the world be like without the Foo-Birds to continually insert their philosophical evaluation of human blunders.

Besides, the EPA would frown on the use of Nukes and the paperwork generated would cause a great deal of work that could be circumvented by simply swallowing one's own mistakes and wiping off what the Foo-Birds leave.

Penguins in Bondage

Reports have reached the PawPrint concerning an insidious (and invidious) Russian Plot to enslave and manipulate the imperious Emperor Penguin into weapons of destruction

Being mindful of U.S.Navy experiments with Dolphins and Porpi, the Soviets have launched a study and research project in their sphere of influence in the Antarctic, during the recent Austral Summer, to teach the Emperor Penguin, four feet of natural dignity, to perform various espionage and raiding functions in the Antarctic Cold.

The Soviets have been reported manipulating the poor seagoing fowls with bribes of food, indicating that the Soviet Bloc has attempted to starve the birds into submission.

The U.S.Navy is reportedly annoyed at the maneuver because they did not think of it first despite their many years in the Antarctic.

However, the worst threat to the Soviets seems to be coming from opposition organized by an omnipresent and omnipotent Audobon Society. This is reportedly a super secret, private intelligence gathering and dissemination agency with contacts throughout the world which transcend regional and national loyalties.

Very rarely has this organization mustered its full strength to deal with problems dear to their hearts. However, when it has, the effect has been awesome.

It appears that another major crisis will appear in the world in the previously demilitarized Antarctic presenting a dangerous escalatory potential which threatens world security.

Carter Pulls Strings to Save Face, Win Vote on Nuclear Fuel for India

By JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WASHINGTON -- The power of the presidency is the most potent force in American politics today. Here is how Jimmy Carter used this power a few days ago:

The Senate was about to reject the president's appeal to ship nuclear fuel to India. This would have been a personal defeat on the eve of the election and would have made him look bad.

So the president took out a few minutes from his campaign to telephone several senators from aboard Air Force One. It's impressive to get a call from the president from on high. It's also tough to talk back to him.

Then Carter ordered the big guns in his administration to bombard Capitol Hill. The most effective were Secretary of State Edmund Muskie and Secretary of Defense Harold Brown. They turned on the pressure behind the scenes.

Muskie got the credit for switching the vote of Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt. Brown made a personal appeal that won over Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the Senate Armed Services Committee chairman.

The president also brought back American ambassador William Goheen from India. He used to be president of Princeton University, where Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., was an all-American basketball player. Goheen was credited with winning over Bradley.

The White House isn't sure exactly who convinced Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., to vote its way. But the president had made all the converts he needed. He won the final vote by the razor-thin margin of 48 to 46.

SADEGH'S DILEMMA: There will soon be a new foreign minister in Iran, according to our sources. The man who now holds the job, Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, is voluntarily being eased out and is now foreign minister in name only.

This is bad news for the United States. Our diplomats believe Ghotbzadeh has been maturing in his job. He started off as a fire-eating fanatic, but has slowly come to realize that Iran has to get along with the rest of the world.

Iran watchers are amazed that Ghotbzadeh has managed to hang on this long. He is hardly a Khomeini-style revolutionary. He drinks, wears flashy clothes and has a weakness for women -- habits which he picked up as a college student in the United States. This should be enough to raise the ayatollah's shaggy eyebrows.

The Iranian people won't mourn Ghotbzadeh's departure. He started out running the national radio and television network for the ayatollah. Ghotbzadeh scrapped the popular American cops-and-robbers show "Kojak," and the Iranian public never forgave him for it.

To make matters worse, he forced Iranian audiences to sit through hour after hour of political speeches, boring discussions and religious lectures.

Ghotbzadeh also has political enemies. He recently fired the Iranian ambassador to France, and the diplomat retaliated by circulating copies of a mysterious bank check that had been mailed to the embassy.

The check was for $1 million, and it was made out to Ghotbzadeh. Across the bottom was this typewritten notation: "FOR THE RELEASE OF THE U.S. HOSTAGES." The check was drawn on the Army National Bank of Fort Leavenworth, Kan. -- which, despite its name, is a private institution.

But Ghotbzadeh's enemies gleefully insisted that this showed he was in the pay of the hated American government. Ghotbzadeh himself denounced the check as an obvious fake, hired some attorneys and announced he was going to sue the ambassador who released it.

But the Iranian public would have none of it. As Ghotbzadeh should know, they'll believe anything.

THE REAGAN RECORD: Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan has claimed that he has never called for military involvement in a foreign crisis. But our reporters researched the record and found that he has recommended the use of force on at least 10 occasions in 10 years, including the North Korean seizure of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo in 1968, the seizure of U.S. tuna boats by Ecuador in 1975, and the Cyprus crisis of 1974.

-- Reagan was once president of the Screen Actors Guild union. He is also the only presidential candidate to hold lifetime membership in the AFL-CIO. But at least 10 Reagan television advertisements have been produced by a non-union crew.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: For the second year in a row, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., has thrown his weight behind a bill that would prohibit the federal Legal Services Corporation from doing anything to "promote, defend or protect homosexuals." ... Those "three-martini" businessmen's lunches that the Internal Revenue Service wants to eliminate as a tax deduction are probably apocryphal. According to surveys, most businessmen bring their lunch to work, take about a half-hour to eat and rarely imbibe.

CSUC Saves Energy Costs Still Soar

consumption compared to 1973-74. This is set for 1983-84.

Chancellor Dumke praised CSUC Presidents, campus energy coordinators, students and staff for bringing about the reductions. But he noted that the energy savings, substantial as they are, still do not offset continuing rate hikes by utilities serving the campuses.

Because of this, he said, it is ever more important to intensify conservation efforts.

S. N. Choudhuri, CSUC Energy Management Engineer, said a major program to replace about 750,000 standard 40-watt fluorescent lamps with 35-watt energy efficient tubes was virtually completed in 1979-80.

This program, coupled with such projects as time clocking of exhaust fans, air handlers, compressors, pumps and other equipment, resulted in a 9.18 percent drop in electrical consumption during the year.

CSUC campuses achieved a 21.05 percent gas and oil consumption reduction by making improvements in boiler thermal efficiency, shortening preheating schedules for buildings and instituting rigid thermostat controls.

Get Help From Placement

The Career Planning and Placement Center offers a variety of services designed to help students while attending college as well as after graduation, whether you are looking for a part-time job or trying to identify career interests or getting ready to interview for your first full-time job, the career Planning and Placement Center staff can assist you.

As the fall quarter gets off to a start, we would like to introduce our staff to new freshmen and transfer students.

Paul Esposito is the Director of the Career Planning and Placement Center and enjoys helping students in writing creative resumes. Paul is interested in talking with students about job interview strategies and the best places to look for a rewarding career.

Lynn Mqss's area of expertise is with Educational Placement. Once students have obtained a teaching or administrative credential from Cal State, San Bernardino, they receive assistance in locating teaching or administrative positions in an educational setting through Lynn.

Lynn also has a special interest in part-time jobs and helping students work while attending classes. There is a part-time job board located outside the Career Planning and Placement Center. This board contains both on-campus and off-campus part-time jobs. Come to the Placement Center to see which jobs might interest you and talk with Lynn.

She has also drawn up a part-time job brochure to help students in their search for a part-time job that is meaningful.

Ed Schneiderhan, who joined the Career Planning and Placement Center last March, particularly likes working with students early in their college years to help them best discover their strengths and bring their specific skills into the career decision making process. Ed is a specialist in the area of vocational testing and helping students to better understand themselves.

Drop by the Career Planning and Placement Center any Monday through Friday between 8:00 and 5:00 in Student Services 116 or call us at 887-7551 for an after hours appointment and let Paul, Lynn or Ed help you.

VA Work/Study

Veterans planning to enter college this fall who are finding it hard to accumulate the extra money they will need to supplement their GI Bill education benefits are urged by the Veterans Administration to investigate its work-study program.

GI Bill students can work up to 250 hours per semester for VA and receive $775 in addition to regular education assistance allowance, according to Larry Villalobos director of VA's Los Angeles Regional Office.

Priority for participation in the work-study program is given veterans who have a 30 percent or greater service connected disability and consideration is given to financial need, motivation and the nature of the work to be done, Villalobos said.

Veterans are not required to work the full 250 hours. They may work any portion of the time that meets their financial needs and fits their individual study program.

Jobs are available for VA-related work on a given campus or at a VA facility.

Veterans desiring to participate in the work-study program or those who want additional information or assistance should contact the Los Angeles VA Regional Office at (800) 352-6592; or a veterans counselor on campus.

New Computer System For CSUC

sophistication and the role of computer technology in the education of students.

We project the number of students using computers, about 74,000 in 1976-77, will increase to 166,000 in 1981-82. Putting it another way, at least one out of every two of our students will be using computers for instructional purposes, according to our most conservative estimates.

Modernizing our computing resources will have a major positive effect on the approaches to learning within The California State University and Colleges. Computing, which for several years has been a resource tool for courses in the physical sciences, including computer science and engineering, is increasingly important in instructional programs in business, management, agriculture and the social sciences. It is being used in such curricula as commercial art, architecture -- even philosophy.

When the project is completed the number of terminals for student access to computers will be increased from 1,751 to 2,747.

New terminals for administrative use will provide rapid access to timely information on which to base decisions. Computing "power," an index of speed and memory capacity at which data can be electronically processed, will multiply at least 15 times on every campus. Additionally, the campuses will benefit from capabilities permitting the CSUC to share computer applications with over 40 institutions across the country having similar installations.

These range from the University of Arizona to the University of Wyoming and include such other universities as Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Texas and Virginia.

The CSUC more than a decade and a half ago pioneered in the operation of a distributed computing network with interconnected installations on all campuses, so what we are embarking on is not a new field but one in which dramatic technological changes have occurred. The Chairman of Control Data Corporation, William C. Norris, model for educational computing all over the world.

What? Me Shy?

Have you been sitting in class for the past few weeks feeling rather lonely and hoping for the chance to meet people? Do you find yourself rehearsing great opening lines and then are afraid to use them? If the answer is yes, you're not alone.

Eighty per cent of all college students see themselves as shy now, or as having been shy recently, according to Dr. Phillip Zimbardo.

The Counseling Center will be offering a group to help students overcome shyness. The group will focus on the practical question of how to cope with challenges posed by shyness.

You'll find constructive ways to change how you think about shyness and how you think about yourself. Often shyness is not caused simply by a lack of self-confidence or unfounded fears about social situations; it may be more a matter of not having or practicing certain social skills.

In the group, one of the things you'll find simple is a strategy for enhancing your personal social effectiveness.

The group meetings will be on Tuesdays, 3:00 - 4:30, starting October 14th. If you're interested in participating, call or drop by the Counseling Center, PS 227, 887-7437.

Prof Honored By League Of Women Voters

Dr. Carol F. Goss, an associate professor of political science here, was recently honored as one of 20 "Citizens of Achievement" by the League of Women Voters.

Dr. Goss has been a professor at Cal State since 1971 and has been active in the League of Women Voters and the National Organization for Women.

The San Bernardino league chapter is currently celebrating its 25th anniversary.

Bishop Straling To Speak Here

The Most Rev. Philip F. Straling, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of San Bernardino, will speak here Wednesday noon, Oct. 8.

The talk, to begin at 12 noon in the multipurpose room of the Student Union Building, is sponsored by the activities committee of the Associated Students and the John XXIII Newman Foundation Chapter on campus. The public is welcome to join the campus community to hear Bishop Straling, said Paul Woodruff, committee chairman.

The bishop, who will discuss some aspect of morality in cortemporary life, is the first of a series of free noon lectures to be presented by the Associated Students.

A native of San Bernardino, Bishop Straling was ordained to the priesthood in 1959 and became bishop of the San Bernardino Diocese in 1978 after serving as parish priest, high school teacher, campus minister and in administrative roles in the Diocesan Synod. He holds a state of California license as a marriage and child counsellor. In recognition of his work in the campus ministry, he was awarded the first National Forsyth Award.

Cattle Step Up College FTE Drive

Dell Yount, Resident Assistant for Shandin, comfort's one of his horny residents.

Three prospective students were spotted on campus last Friday Night by the Mid-Watch in the Pub.

The entire campus community sprang into action in an effort to increase the FTE and enrollment figures.

Admissions and Records officials immediately rushed to the scene to enroll the cattle. However, the cattle did not have the required application fee so A&R turned the matter over to Financial Aids who were arguing with the Placement Office Personnel whether the new students would be on Work Study or employed as Student Assistants. Work Study won out temporarily when it was found that one of the cattle had a BA and would be considered a graduate student and thereby unemployable on the campus since they require higher wages.

Financial Aids prepared a fee waiver only to discover the required signatures could not be taken.

EOP heard of an entire family planning to enroll from an obscure minority and rushed to the scene only to leave upon discovering the Family came from Guernsey.

Dorm officials expressed relief that they wouldn't have to find room in an already overcrowded dormitory. Sighs of relief were also reported from the Dorm Maintenance and Cleaning Staffs.

Several groundskeepers were seen to wipe their foreheads in relief.

The Physical Plant did send a representative to require a mandatory EPA study be launched to determine the ecological impact in terms of waste disposal parameters operating within the ground water system.

AS Government officials ran to the scene and gave out gift packs and calendars.

Campus Police attempted to arrest the family for trespass, but the bull, who'd graduated from Hastings, argued and the Police decided that his points were better than theirs. They then attempted to issue a parking citation but had to give that up also when they could not find a windshield wiper.

The HoofPrint interviewed the cattle and discovered they were on their way North to Stanford's Research Farm to visit relatives and apply for their writing 'ellowship.

Quality Homes For A Quality Life

Children's Home Society of California has recently been awarded a grant to recruit and certify 12 homes for Developmentally Disabled children. The purpose of the Grant is to assist in the development of homes which could provide a normalizing experience for developmentally disabled children with special needs and who have no other alternative than State hospitalization.

Children's Home Society is looking for people who have experience, training, or are willing to receive training, which would provide them with the necessary skills to meet the needs of

Back To School Nutrition

"When Students are off at college, they often find keeping their weight down is as hard as keeping their grades up," says Gary Bart, Area Director of WEIGHT WATCHERS in Orange, San Diego, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties.

"For many young adults this is their first opportunity to exercise freedom of choice in their eating. Left to their own devices, they deprive themselves of the well balanced meals which were served at home. Breakfast is skipped.

Lunch and dinner are taken on the run, favoring menus overloaded with fats and refined sugar. Further, their physical activity level is often curtailed as they give up spare time for study time.

This can lead to what is commonly called 'freshman 10', the 10 extra pounds that pile on during that crucial first year.

"Simply giving up meals is not the answer," Bart continues. "It is vital for the college-bound to maintain good eating habits so that they can function at their full potential, both physically and mentally."

Failure to eat properly can result in a self-made handicap affecting academic performance and, perhaps, leading to health problems in later years. The answer is to learn to make intelligent food choices. There's no reason for students to avoid joining the crowd for an occasional bite at favorite college meeting spots, but if weight is a problem, then simple care over what is ordered can make all the difference.

"A hamburger or frankfurter broiled on a rack, a glass of milk and a salad are available at a lot of 'fast-food' places now, and makes a good meal. Fruit for dessert satisfies both the need for sweets and the need for fibre," explains Bart. "But fried foods, special sauces laden with fats, or beverages containing sugar will only provide an excess of 'empty' calories--calories that contain little nutritional value."

"College should be a time for expanding one's horizons, not one's waist-line. A sensible eating plan should help insure both."

With full residency in the dorms, come the unpleasant spectre of long lunch lines. To avoid frustration and to help keep the line moving, the Commons reminds people that Lunch lasts from 11-1:30 weekdays. Noon is the most crowded time. Come 15 minutes early or later for your own convenience.

children with autism, multiple handicaps, and behavioral adjustment problems.

Children's Home Society is authorized to certify foster homes for children (0-21). The certification would be equivalent to a license, entitling the foster home to become vendorized.

Financial assistance is available through the grant to assist potential foster homes in meeting specific licensing requirements.

Children's Home Society is working in co-operation with ICDD staff to fulfill the objectives of the grant. For more information please feel free to contact us at (714) 686-7603.

The First Annual Budweiser Intramural Canoe Races were held at Glen Helen Park, on Friday, Oct. 3, with the team of Karen Kersey and Rob Wilson capturing first place with a time of 2:01.

Sherry Kiefer and Jerry Fay took second (2:11) and the team of Evelyn Garcia and Scott Burnett were a close third (2:12).

According to Joe Long, the campus intramural director, 16 teams participated in the event.

Library Exhibit Feature On Black Women

A Smithsonian Institution exhibition focusing on black women who have contributed to the development of this country will be displayed in the Library until Nov. 2.

Titled "Black Women: Achievements Against the Odds," the exhibit illustrates achievements and contributions of both known personalities and little recognized black women. It was researched and developed by the Anacostia Neighborhood Museum of the Smithsonian Institution.

Included in the show are women such as Maggie Lena Walker, the first black to serve as president of a United States bank; Nikki Giovanni, writer of poetry and nonfiction; and Billie Holiday, noted blues singer.

The exhibit is divided into major sections: literature, medicine, civil rights, education, law and the judiciary, business, industry and inventions, fine arts, performing arts, armed forces and government.

The lives and accomplishments of more than 150 women are included in the exhibit. Their stories unfold through biographical and historical text, photographs and silk-screened illustrations.

The display will be on view in the Cal State library during regular hours: Monday - Thursday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Sunday, 1 to 9 p.m.

Serrano Village First Annual Reunion

By Weldon
Sutton

One of the prime considerations a student has to make in trying to decide whether or not to move into the dormitories is "will the dorms provide an atmosphere conducive to my studies?" This is obviously a very important criteria for becoming a resident in Serrano Village.

But, not until later, after moving into the dorms, will he realize that there was something else that deserved equal consideration: namely, "how will the experiences that I have in the dorms influence my social development?"

Anyone who has ever lived in The Village will attest to the fact that forming close-knit relationships with the other residents come naturally. On August 24, approximately 100 former residents with the exception of Tim Hamre (currently completing his fourth year at Cal State) and me (currently beginning my sixth year) congregated at Sylvan Park in Redlands as a demonstration of this comradery.

The presence of former housing coordinator Dr. Theron Pace and resident director Loraine Turk, who was a personal friend of many of the residents, made the reunion complete.

Everyone brought their frisbee, hamburger, steak and beer for a fun filled day of reminiscing about the "good-old-days" and updating each other on the events which had transpired during the past several years.

There were many photograph collections which brought back vivid memories to all of us. We laughed with amazement at some of the stories behind the pictures. Those who had married and begun to raise a family were especially surprised with the changes in their life styles.

Kevin Shaughnessy, who was one of the village's first residents, related how he trained to be a firefighter while in pursuit of his B.A. at CSCSB. He presently lives with his wife in El Cajon and is employed with the fire department in San Diego. Of his experiences as a firefighter, Kevin recalled "My biggest thrill occurred when our truck was first at the scene of a huge fire involving a jet airliner a few years ago."

The credit for the planning and organization of this festivity belongs to Cheryl and Pam Robson both former residents of Shandin house. Cheryl, who was the house resource (R.A.) person in Shandin during her last two years (1975 and 1976 academic school years), said that even though only about half of those invited came, the event was a huge success and that once other people heard about the reunion they would be eager to attend the second annual reunion next year.

I'm anxious to look into the possibility of having someone (perhaps myself) coordinate his/her efforts with Cheryl to invite those residents from the 1977 through the 1980 academic school years to the reunion because this is an excellent and convenient means of restoring and/or maintaining interpersonal relationships.

English Equivalency Exam

A total of 4,810 potential students, most of them seniors in high school at the time, last spring participated in the 1980 CSUC English Equivalency Examination.

This was the largest turnout since the program was initiated in 1973. Students who demonstrate knowledge equal to that of university freshmen who have completed first-year English courses are entitled to six semester units of academic credit upon enrolling at a CSUC campus.

The results, tabulated this summer show 1,417 of the students qualified for credit in English, bringing to 9,017 the number who have successfully participated since the innovative testing program was started seven years ago.

A chance to lead.

A chance to lead. A chance to fly.

These and many more opportunities for personal growth are available through training programs in the United States Army. Officer Candidate School (OCS) and the Warrant Officer Flight Training (WOFT) programs train leaders and pilots for assignments all over the world.

To enter OCS you must have a bachelors degree and meet other qualifications. WOFT applicants must possess a high school diploma. A couple of years of college are desired but not mandatory.

I have been appointed College Recruiter for this area. I will be working closely with local Army Recruiting Stations to help college students plan for their futures in the Army.

I look forward to talking with you about the Army and your opportunities. Please call for an appointment.

Openings for Involvement

There are currently openings for students on a wide variety of decision making and policy making bodies on this campus.

If you are interested in setting policies for the operation of the Student Union, there is one opening for a student position on the Student Union Board of Directors. Applications for appointment are available in the Dean of Students office (SS-114).

The Instructionally Related Programs (IRP) board also has one opening for a student position. If you are interested in allocations to programs such as music, drama, art, intramural athletics, Model U.N., etc., you should apply in the Associated Students office (SU-32).

The Publications board, which oversees the The PawPrint, is looking for two more student members. Applications are in the A.S. office (SU-32).

If you would like to have input into how Student Service Fee monies are spent, you should join the Service Fee Advisory Panel. Applications are in the A.S. office (SU-32).

A new procedure has been established this year for hearing grade grievances. Among other things, students will be sitting on the panels which hear the grade grievance. If you are interested in sitting on this panel contact the A.S. office or the Dean of Students office.

If you're interested in the educational policies of the campus you should be on the faculty Senate Committees which formulate those policies. You can apply in the Dean of Students office.

Finally, if you're interested in how your A.S. fee money is spent or A.S. policies, there are openings on the A.S. Board of Directors for representatives from Undeclared Majors and from the School of Education. Applications are in the A.S. office
